FLORENCE- DARLINGTON AREA COMMISSION FOR TECHNICAL EDUCATION

The original legislation creating Technical Education in 1961 provided that there must be adequate local supervision. This local supervision is provided in the form of Area Commissions for Technical Education, composed of laymen who, without compensation, devote many hours annually establishing policies and reviewing the implementation of these policies.

The legislature approved laws creating the Florence- Darlington Area Commission in 1963. This law provided that the Florence-Darlington Area Technical Education Center would be established under the supervision of an Area Commission comprised of members from Florence and Darlington Counties. Of the original members, three continue to serve on the Commission, assuring continuity in policy for the operation of the Center.

The Commission meets frequently for the purpose of development of policies and for review of all aspects of operation of the Center. Their duties are too many to be itemized, but suffice to say that these dedicated laymen are fully responsible for the tremendous success of the Florence- Darlington Center in fulfilling its obligations to the people of the area which it serves. The community is a better place in which to live and many of all ages have a better way of life because of the efforts of these dedicated men. This publication could not be complete without paying tribute to the finest Area Commission in the program of Technical Education.

TECHNOLOGY

ELECTRONICS ENGINEERING TECHNOLOGY: EET puts the fundamental study of A-C and D-C currents, electronic circuits, and electronic components into use and also shows how they work and operate. The curriculum is designed to touch all rudiments of engineering. The mathematics included in this course guide the mind into the orderly and logical method of scientific thought from basic algebra to the more accurate mathematical models of natural phenomena which are treated using the concepts of the infinite and the infinitesimal embodied in the Calculus . . . CIVIL ENGINEERING TECHNOLOGY: The student is given instruction in surveying, basic design and construction techniques, provisions and practical applications of construction contracts and specifications, engineering materials, sewage and water supply systems, and the use and cost of heavy equipment found in large engineering jobs . . . DRAFTING AND DESIGN: In the curriculum of drafting and design, one is exposed to three different types of drafting: Mechanical Drafting, Structural Drafting, and Architectural Drafting. In each area the student is required to compile and complete a required amount of work . . . INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING: is the science or art of making the most effective use of human energy. The IET program offers the courses of instruction needed to gain the skills necessary for solving those problems of an industrial plant. These courses range from plant layout and production control to the psychology of human relations and personnel management . . . AGRONOMY: (AGRICULTURE TECHNOLOGY) Modern farms today must be administered by a person that is well trained in up-to-date methods. In this course the student will be given an adequate background in farm administration with a special emphasis on field crops (such as cotton, soybeans and tobacco, including varieties, adaptations, and methods of handling and processing. He will also study soil management, use and insect control, farm machinery, marketing, and farmstead mechanizations . . .

SECRETARIAL SCIENCE: This course of study provides instruction in skill subjects such as typing, shorthand, and other business courses. You also have subjects dealing with attitudes, appearance, and conduct when working in an office.

The student may choose which field she wants to go into. For instance, she may go into medical, legal or engineering

The opportunities for job satisfaction and advancement are unlimited to the individual possessing the necessary qualifications . . . DATA PROCESSING: This curriculum introduces the student to the general purpose high speed electronic computer as a versatile and powerful instrument for problem-solving and data processing. The program provides understanding of the concepts, principles and techniques of data processing. The graduate will be an effective programmer of computer equipment and will be able to adapt himself to the various digital computers . . . BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION: The Business Administration Curriculum opens the road to success and prepares us to follow the road in all business related fields. Upon graduation you will be qualified and will be ready to assume responsible positions in the varied fields of business and industry. ### CRAFTS

AIRCRAFT is a highly technical course offering complete training in all systems, components and phases of aircraft repair and inspection. Successful completion of the course allows the graduate to test for the Federal Aviation Agency license. More experience can lead to flight engineering, work with the F.A.A. as an aircraft inspector, a safety inspector, or even to investigator . . . AUTOMOTIVE MECHANICS is a complicated and interesting course. It requires a highly trained technician. It is a craft where a person can work and then go into business for himself. "In this course I have developed such a pride and found a satisfaction I haven't known before." The key word is perfection . . . AIR CONDITIONING, REFRIGERATION, AND HEATING This curriculum is designed to develop the knowledge and skills necessary for employment as operating engineers, technicians, or mechanics. Graduates of this program will be able to enter into the field of sales planning, installing, operating and maintaining all types of heating, air conditioning and refrigeration equipment . . . DIESEL MECHANICS The diesel mechanic curriculum is designed to develop technicians capable of performing high-quality diesel maintenance work. Many job opportunities are available because of the tremendous impact that the diesel powerplant has made upon virtually all phases of the farm . . . All phases of work are expected of a diesel mechanic; management and business operations are also stressed . . . TOOL AND DIE uses many types of machines, tools and a wide variety of precision measuring instruments. Tool and Diemakers are the highest paid metal-machinery workers. They usually work a 40-hour week and attain all fringe benefits . . . MA-CHINE SHOP students learn to operate all machine tools including benchwork, floorwork, assembly layout, selected milling machines. There are many job opportunities in the Pee Dee for machine operators and the pay is high.

The job conditions are good and you have a chance to advance . . . RADIO AND TELEVISION MECHANICS this curriculum prepares students for employment in maintenance and repair of radio, audio, hi-fi, stereo, and television. The student learns the fundamentals of direct and alternating currents, vacuum tube, transistors, and solid state device. Through laboratory experience he learns the use of test equipment for diagnosis, alignment and monitoring of circuits, circuit action and tracing, also troubleshooting. Many positions are open including radio repairman, audio, stereo, and television technician. The demand for trained personnel in this field is critical but so is the supply.

HEALTH

DENTAL ASSISTANT: The dental assistant performs a variety of services necessary to assist a dentist. Her duties range from office management, taking care of instruments, developing X-Ray film, and some laboratory work. She deals directly with patients in such things as scheduling of appointments, keeping personal records up-to-date, greeting and routing patients in the dentist office . . . RADIOLOGIC

TECHNOLOGY: The radiologic technology program equips the student with the skills needed to obtain a position in a hospital or clinic as an X-Ray technician. The program stimulates interest by allowing the student to perform actual work at the hospital. His time is divided between classroom work at the Center and actual laboratory training in the X-Ray department at the hospital.

FORE

An interview November 24 between Fred C. Fore, Director of Florence-Darlington Tec., and Russell Graham, Co-Editor of Baviere.

(1) Baviere: Who was most responsible for the success of Technical Education?

Mr. Fore: There were basically three groups or individuals, the Governor Hollins (now Senator), Gov.-elect John West, and the West Committee, established by the general assembly under John West's chairmanship. Through their efforts the State Committee for Technical Education was appointed. The committee was made up of one man from each congressional district, and it was chaired by Mr. Stanley Smith. This committee had the foresight and wisdom to give status and policy to the potential program. They employed Mr. A. Wade Martin, who realistically was the one individual who was responsible for the development of the finest post-secondary occupational education in the entire country today. This is evidenced by the fact that we have had governors and delegations from nearly every state in the country come to S.C. and look at our program.

(2) Baviere: What is your opinion about student participation in decisions relating to curriculum development such as advisory committee?

Mr. Fore: In answer to that question, go back and review the purpose of technical education. It was begun for the student body.

The technical education center was established and is here for one purpose — that is to serve the student body; therefore, unless we allow the students a voice, I don't feel as though we can fulfill the original purpose of technical education. I think that the student body through its elected representatives should have a say-so in every aspect of the operation of the school.

(3) Baviere: What do you think about the maturity of young people now, and do you think we should lower the voting age?

Mr. Fore: Our young people are maturing much earlier than they did several years ago; as a result of that, I think they deserve the right to more of a voice in the democratic process of our country, our nation, our state, and certainly in our institutions. Therefore, I think they should be allowed to vote at an earlier age; what age I'm not sure, but at an earlier age than is currently allowed.

(4) Baviere: Do you think we have many students dodging the military service by coming to TEC?

Mr. Fore: I doubt that we have 1% of our total student body who is here to get out of the military service.

(5) Baviere: On drug awareness, do you think it is stressed enough today?

Mr. Fore: I am concerned about this aspect. It concerns me more today in our society than any other factor. For young people, regardless of whether it is alcohol, drugs, or whatever, start out in minor dosages and pretty soon are addicted.

I do know that over-abuse of a drug or whatever can lead to destruction both physically, emotionally, and morally. Yes, I am concerned, and if I had the opportunity to say anything to our young people today, I would say to take a close look at drugs before you allow yourself to become involved with them.

(6) Baviere: What are your opinions toward increasing student activities, such as sports?

Mr. Fore: By all means I think we should broaden our scope of student activities.

(7) Baviere: How about a bookstore at school?

Mr. Fore: We have planned on the ground floor of our new facilities a rather extensive student center. A campus shop is one of the major areas. It will carry not only the materials needed such as paper, pencils, notebooks, but also certain wearing apparel and things that you would find in a campus shop.

(8) Baviere: What are the long-range plans for TEC? Are we going toward a community-college status?

Mr. Fore: We plan to broaden our courses, our curriculums, and our student activities. We have to educate to fulfill job opportunities. The job opportunities in the Pee Dee area today are not for the liberal-arts oriented but are for the job-oriented type of education.

Mr. Fore: I am not in favor of gross extremism in personal appearance, but I am in favor of going along with whatever the student body wants to wear as long as it is in good taste with the normal fashions of our society today.

(11) Baviere: We need a lot of industry in our community, and, of course, we've got a good bit coming in, but do you feel that we can control pollution as we get more industry?

(9) Baviere: Do you think we will be accredited?

Mr. Fore: Very definitely so: as a matter of fact I will be very disappointed if the Southern Association doesn't grant us full accreditation.

(10) Baviere: What are your attitudes toward students' dress and appearance at Tec?

Mr. Fore: We live in a society which can send a man to the moon; therefore, I see no difficulty in developing programs and equipment to control any type of pollution.
